Work with a partner on the following webquest.

What is the industrial revolution? What is the information revolution?

Choose one of the topics below to about. Most of the articles are quite long and many are difficult. Find the important points and/or interesting points to summarise. Imagine that a friend asks you what the article is about. Think of how you would tell them in your own words.

Often you can use headings and sub-headings to guide you in your summary.

Don't copy sections of the website and present it as your own work.

Don't get caught up in trying to understand everything. Aim to understand the main ideas and arguments.

Take notes as you read.

Prepare a short talk to tell your class about the article you read.
